Basketball camp set at Longwood

Longwood College will serve as host for the third Capital Classic All-Star Basketball Camp July 24-29 for high school juniors and seniors and exceptional sophomores. The camp is being directed by Red Jenkins, W. T. Woodson High basketball coach, Bob Geoghan of Sports America in Rockville, MD and Gabe Oliverio, McLean High School basketball coach.

"We're delighted to host a camp of this stature," said Longwood head coach Cal Luther, who will be the college coach in residence for the week. "I've been working to bring the Capital Classic Camp here for two years. It's great to have a top flight camp in this section of the state.

Luther calls camp co-director Red Jenkins "one of the premier high school basketball coaches in the country." Jenkins, head coach at Woodson for 21 years, has 350 wins. His teams have won or shared 14 district titles and Red was voted Virginia and Region III Coach of the Year in 1976.

Purposes of the camp are to provide maximum exposure to over 100 college coaches, to offer top flight competition for each player and to give each player the highest quality of instruction from the finest basketball minds available.

A number of college and pro basketball greats will be on hand for special demonstrations and teaching stations. Among the players who visited the Capital Classic Camp in the past are Ralph Sampson, Buck Williams and Adrian Dantley.

The camp features three meals daily with the finest food served cafeteria style, modern dorm rooms, all indoor play in the new Lancer Hall Sports Complex with infirmary and canteen.

In addition, the camp will provide station drills with top basketball personalities, three games per day, free Capital Classic t-shirts, and free evaluation forms. Every camper accepted will play in the camp's top league and every camper will be included in an extensive scouting report to be sent to over 100 college and university coaches.

Spaces will be available for day campers from the Southside Virginia area. For more information call 392-9243 or 392-9241.

Locals compete in race

It's been five years since Waynesboro's own Fred Ramsey won on the Eastside Speedway dragstrip in Waynesboro.

Sunday afternoon, running a roadster he first raced here this June 12 and only twice since, Ramsey beat out former track champ Aubrey Elliott of Lynchburg and he did it in 9.01 second down the quarter mile.

Ramsey dialed in Sunday on 9 seconds flat, his quickest time in four weeks, and when they went to the Christmas Tree for the $500, the roadster was one hundredth of a second over at the 9.01. Elliott's Corvette turned a 10.04 on a 10.02 dial-in.

Semi-finalist was Bernard Weaver of Madison in a Cuda that Ramsey beat; Elliott was the bye runner.

Quarter final action saw Ramsey with the bye, Elliott winning on Charlie Wisecarver's red light and J.B. Coffey of Waynesboro going down to Weaver with an 8.98. Coffey had dialed in at 9 flat also.

The five hundred dollar pro winner was Clyde Harvey of Appomattox in a Camero that ran 12.87. LeRoy Woolridge of Pamplin was runner-up in a Camero with an 11.51 and the semi finalist was Bennie Cook of Waynesboro, 11.41 in another Camaro. The quarter finalists were Tom Tuck of Chatham, 12.57 in a Camaro and Gary Stanley of Bedford in a Mustang that went 17.49.

Bike eliminator took home $150 and the win went to John Ritchie of Fulks Run in 12.46 seconds. Runner-up was Bill Lindsay of Lynchburg with an 11.77. The Semi finalists were Lanny DeJarnette of Lynchburg with 10.16 seconds and Barry Gwart of Rustburg, 12.49.

Gary Helmick of Elkton was the Modified winner with a Ford that ran 16.22 against Woodrow Boyers of Mt. Crawford, 15.90 in a Firebird. John McCrary of Port Republic was semi finalist with an 18.38 in a Buick.

Funny Cars come to town next Saturday night with gates opening at 4 and finals at 7:30 p.m.

Minors' licenses changed

As of July 1, the Division of Motor Vehicles is using profile instead of a full-face photographs on driver licenses and ID cards issued to people who are under age 21.

DMV began taking profile photos of applicants under age 19 last July, and legislation approved by the 1983 General Assembly extended the requirement to applicants age 20 or younger.

Donald E. Williams, DMV commissioner, explained that the profile photograph is expected to help ABC officials, restaurateurs and merchants recognize quickly whether someone is eligible to buy alcoholic beverages.

"If an individual presents a license or ID card with a profile view photo, then they are probably underage to buy wine and all types of distilled spirits," Williams said. He noted, however, that merchants should continue to check birth dates because some people with profile photos will be eligible to buy beer, but not wine and hard liquor. In addition, he said it will take three years before all people under 21 will have a profile photo.

Another reason for merchants to continue to check birth dates is that eventually some individuals who have profile photo licenses and IDs may be older than 21. "16-year-olds today will have to have their licenses renewed in four years at age 20, and they will still receive a profile photo. If they choose not to have their license changed until it comes up again for renewal, they may be 24 and still have a profile photo on their driver's license."

Local team hosts tourney

The tournament is a double-elimination event, with the champion moving on to the state playoffs at Madison Heights.

Appomattox was slated to play Farmville last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the first round of the tournament. Games are at 7:30 p.m. each night.

Brad Babcock honored

Bradley Babcock, coach at James Madison University, Harrisonburg, has been named the NCAA Eastern Region baseball coach of the year.

Babcock, the son of Mrs. A.A. Babcock of Oakleigh Avenue, Appomattox, and the late Mr. Babcock, led James Madison to a 37 - 13 record and the school's first ever College World Series appearance.

A graduate of Lynchburg College, Babcock has a 358 - 150 - 2 record in 13 seasons at James Madison. Each of his last eight James Madison teams has won 30 games or more, and 15 of his players have signed contracts with professional baseball organizations since the 1976 season.

The Eastern Region consists of 32 Division I schools and the coach of the year award is voted on by the coaches in the region. Babcock was voted regional coach of the year in 1981 when James Madison went 41 - 18 - 1.

Watson and Lucado clans hold reunion

A family reunion of the descendants of the late William Joseph Watson and wife, the late Nannie Elizabeth Lucado, of Buckingham County, Va. was held recently at Gosnold Hope Park in Hampton, Va. In addition to Watson descendants, there were representatives of the Bagby and Seay families, as well as many friends in attendance. Attendees came from California, North Carolina, Washington, D.C., and around the State of Virginia.

Of the eleven children of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph Watson, Mrs. Ethel (Watson) Seay holds the honor of being the oldest now living; however, she was unable to attend due to health reasons.

Activities of the day included renewing family ties, family groupings for the photographer, viewing family pictures, and pursuing the Family tree charts. Family album pictures of bygone days, including some tintypes of ancestors, were shared by Robert L. Watson. He also displayed his updated "Watson" genealogy chart covering eight generations dating back to William E. Watson (1775 -) and wife, Fannie Wilkinson. Robert L. Watson, whose address is 149 Floxom Dr., Newport News, Va. 23602, continues to seek and to exchange any family history on the Seay, Lucado, Perrow and Watson lines.

A picnic meal of delicious foods, complete with varied desserts and watermelon was spread for the noon hour.

Expressions of appreciation were extended to Mrs. Julia (Watson) Spiggle, chairperson on the 1983 reunion committee, for her untiring efforts and work accomplished on behalf of the reunion. Recognition and presentations were made to several special attendees by Mrs. Spiggle. Among these were Mr. William Irvy Watson, the oldest Watson representative; Mrs. Gladys (Seay) Fulcher, the oldest Seay representative; Mrs. Nannie (Watson) Lyon, oldest representative of the Bagby family; Master Steven O'Neil Watson, youngest male descendant; Miss Kathy Lawrence, youngest female descendant; and Mr. Joseph Bagby Watson and daughter, Miss Nancy Ellen Watson, who traveled the greatest distance to attend. Other presentations went to Mr. and Mrs. David Seay, Major and Mrs. Curtis Hardy, Mrs. Nancy H. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Spiggle, Mrs. Sam Cunningham, Mr. and Ms. Marvin Ragland and Mr. Glenn Spiggle.

Plans for the 1984 reunion include meeting jointly with the Seay-Watson reunion in Appomattox County, Va. This reunion is held annually on the second Sunday in July. Coordinators to assist in the 1984 reunion are Robert L. Watson, Mrs. Julia (Watson) Spiggle, Mrs. Betty (Franklin) Merricks, and Mrs. Jannie (Watson) Franklin.

THERE WAS MORE THAN HAY to be found on the North Robinson farm the other day....a snake measuring seven feet, eight inches in length. Leonard Garrett and Garland Garrett were hailing hay when they spotted the unusually long, black snake. He was a big one, there's no doubt about it, but that snake didn't have a chance against those Garrett men!
